

What do I need to know about LAP reporting?

LAP Definition of Readiness to Learn

Readiness to Learn (RTL) programs are designed to deliver academic and non-academic supports for students significantly at risk of not being successful in school. The goal of RTL is to reduce barriers to learning, strengthen engagement, and ensure all students are able to attend school ready to learn.

Funding Readiness to Learn

Up to five percent of a district's LAP funds may be used for RTL, which can be offered in partnership with community-based organizations. The school board must approve in an open meeting any community-based organization or local agency before learning assistance funds may be expended.

The five percent set aside applies only to the LAP Base Allocation.

Readiness to Learn Activities

Academic Services

- Tutoring
- Before and After School Programs with Academic Focus
- Academic Enrichment

Nonacademic Services

- Mentor Programs
- Social-Emotional Supports
- Case Management Services
- Counseling
- Community Referrals / Resources

Readiness to Learn Resources

- Learning Assistance Program
- Menus of Best Practices and Strategies
- LAP Q&A

Readiness to Learn Questions in EDS

Identify the number of students served for:

Academic Services

Nonacademic Services

Identify outcomes (check all that apply):

- Increase Attendance
- Reduce Discipline Referrals
- Improve Academic Performance
- Improve Family Engagement
- Other:

Additional Information:

Have Questions?
Need Help?

Call the LAP
Office

(360) 725-6100

Email the LAP
Office

LAP@k12.wa.us